3.2 Amount to be Borne for Cable Tunnels or Conduits

The amount to be borne by a contracting carrier when it uses a cable tunnel or conduit that is necessary for interconnection under the Entrusted Maintenance Contract or the Collocation Space Usage Contract is calculated as follows.

3.2.1 Application

Classification	Contents
(1) Calculating the amount to be borne	(a) The amount to be borne for a cable tunnel is calculated for the usage distance in each section by applying the amount applicable to the administrative area where the facilities are installed as specified in Table 3.2.2.1. (b) The amount to be borne for a conduit is calculated for the usage distance in each

	section by applying the amount applicable to the administrative area where the facilities are installed (hereinafter referred to as “ordinary conduit charge”) as specified in Table 3.2.2.2. (c) Notwithstanding the provisions in (b) above, an amount equivalent to the amount calculated by multiplying the ordinary conduit charge by one-half (1/2) shall be applied to the conduits in which a half-duct method (meaning a method enabling the accommodation of two cables in one conduit by installing two protective flexible pipes in each of which one cable is installed) is applied. (d) The monthly amount to be borne for a cable tunnel or conduit is 1/12 of the annual amount.
(2) Apportioning the cable tunnel usage charge	The cable tunnel usage charge is apportioned on the basis of the number of cables housed in the applicable section.
